A Really Meritorious Improvement in Gas-Burners.—The JOHNSON GAS BURNER and REGULAFOR combined is an article which will be adopted by all gas consumers as soon as they become acquainted with its merits. Thousands who have them in use bear testimony that they have reduced their gas buils from 25 to 40 per cent. This new Burner has been adopted by many of the largest establishments in this city, and by many citizens in their private dwellings, within the last four months, with great satisfaction. They are in use in several of the large cities of the United States, and the day is net far distant when they will be adopted by all consumers of gas. The JOHNSON FATENT is the only real improvement in Gas Burners ever presented to the public. Through these Burners as much light is obtained with three feet of gas as the common burners yield with a consumption of six feet per hour. The superiority and economy of these Burners will be demonstrated to any citizen who will call at the office of the Cempany, No. 502 Broadway, where hundreds are daily flocking to investigate and adopt them. We have tested these burners on our own premises, and cheerfolly bear witness to the truth of the statements made by the proprietors. Those who wish to reduce their gas bills one half, and yet have as good a light as ever, can readily do so by using the JOHNSON BURNER and REGULATOR combined.—[Sunday Atlas.

NOTES ON NURSING;
WHAT IT IS, AND WHAT IT IS NOT.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

The following notes are by no means intended as a role of thought by which norses can teach themselves to nurse, still less as a manual to teach nurses to antrae. They are meant simply to give hints for thought to women who have personal charge of the health of others. Every woman, or at lesst almost every woman in England has, at one time or another of her life, charge of the personal health of somebody, whether child or invaliding on the reasonal to the survey woman is a nurse. Every day saultary knowledge, or the knowledge of nursing, or in other words, how to put the constitution in such a state as that it will have no disease, takes a high place. It is recognized as the knowledge which every one ought to have distinct from medical knowledge, which only a profession can have.

have.

If, then, every woman must, at some time or other of her life, become a nurse, i. e., have charge of somebody's health, how immense and how valuable would be the produce of her united experience, if every woman would think how to nurse.

I do not pretend te teach her how; I sak her to teach herself, and for this purpose I venture to give her some hints.

HUMANICS.

T. WHARTON COLLINS,
Professor of Political Philosophy, University of Louisians.
1vol., 8vc. Cloth, $1.75.
Prom The Christian Observer.
"'Humanics'—new term to some of our readers—is the title of this interesting book on the 'Science of Human Nature.' It presents a continuous synoptical view of the complex and in tricate constitution of man—material and ethereal—a microcosam of the universe. It investigates the constituents of human nature—vitality, sensation, emotion, thought, and action, which enter into combination in man. It comprises the study of much thought on man in his various relations to the material world, his vitality exhibiting phenomena similar to those of vegetation; his animal nature comprehending lustinet, sensation, emotion, impressibility, memory, and iccomotion, in common with other animals. The author surveys these primary elements in man, as united with reason and thought, which elevate him above the works of God, and constitute him the responsible roler of his instincts and members, the lord of this lower creation."

"The Saturday Fress is the ablest of the literary weeklies, and almost the only one which possesses any very salient peculiarities of character and tone."

"We want our readers distinctly to understand that The New-York Saturday Fress is the most samey, elever, independent, and playant literary weekly now or ever published anywhere. The Saturday Fress cannot be induced by money or patronage to puf anybody or snything not deserving free favorable mention, and is as free and independent as it is witty, sprightly, and just in all matters of at, literature, and social questions. It is the paper for intelligent and independent people."

From The New-York Sunday Times.

"It is edited with much sprightliness and ability. Its dramatic foulls ten is partheliarly lively. Altogether, we hold The Saturday Frees and its specialities are real addition to the best newspaper literature of the day."

From The New-York Funday Courier.

"The Saturday Press contains wit enough, and good writing enough to entitle it to a hearty support from all the cultivated and right-thinking classes."

"We believe everybody, unless he is a sham and a charlatan, likes this spirited, ontupoken sincet. The individuals excepted held it in poly horror; for the manner is pitches into nonsonae of all kinds in its sharp, sententious, Frenchy way, is as refreshing to the pure-minded and virtuous, as it is distasteful to the humbugs."

From The Boston Recorder.

From The Boston Congregationalist.

"We have been much pleased with The New-York Saturday Press, which strikes us as being the spiciest frankest and truest in its criticisms upon literature of any journal out. It contains the completest printed list of new books, and books in press."

From The Philadesphia Fress.

"We are moved by no consideration save genuine merit to commend to the scarchers after a good weekly paper, the Saturday Fress, published in New-York by Henry Ciapp, jt. It is really the first attempt in this country at a pure, decent, uninfluenced literary journal, and is fee from the nanseating traits of the majority of the weeklies. The criticisms of affairs in the artistic and social realm are intelligent, and always his straight; the bon mots outsparkle the best things of Punch; and a feature alone worthy the subscription is the weekly Book-List, accurately prepared."

ADELA THE OCTOROON.

BY HEZ. L. HOSMER.

1 vol., 12mo., 400 pages. Muslin. Price $1.

A Reviewer of talent says: "One of the striking features of this book is the powerful interest with which the plot is wrought out. The incidents, which are frequent, accelerate rather than retard the flow of the tale, and urge to the thrilling and dramatic denouement. The character of Capt. Jake in his unswerving fidelity, his warm and ardent affection, not less than the wild and fearful retribution he brings upon the wilding of the story—he is a true negro—embodying all the virtues that a wicked system permits to a siave.

"Adela's struggles emilst the sympathes of the reader in her cruel fertures. She is one of those calm and placid, yet child-like and clinging natures that awaken love while they temper pity with respect."

[LA FEMME.] WOMAN. [LA FEMME.]
The Baltimore Exchange rays:
"In L'Amour, Michelet has shown us the rudimentary woman, to to speak—unformed dependant, helpless—needing to be soothed, sustained, guided, strengthened; and he says—love her;
In La Femme, he introduces to us the cultivated woman, fitted by her education for all the duties of a wife and mother; and he says—marry her! La Femme begins, therefore, where L'Amour left off."

The Troy Arena says:
"Michelet occupies the same position in French society and literature that Geore Bancroft or Or. Lieber, or Henry Carey, or Wheaton, sustain in the United States; and the fact that he has quitted the field of law and history to discourse about love and the composition of weman, only shows that Frenchmen are unlike any other men."

The Publishers take great pleasure in being able to present to the American public another new and charming work by the popular American Authoress, Mrs. Exam D. E. N. Southiwours, she is excelled by no living female writer in the world. Her siyle is free from insipidity on the one hand and bombast on the other; and though we meet with foreible, we are never started with inflated language. Her characters are rarely under, but never overdrawn. Her scenes are life pictures, her incidents founded on facts, and her sentiments are characterized by a singular purity both of conception and expression. She has the rare faculty of saying what she means, and of saying it in such a manner as that her meaning cannot be misinterpreted. In short, she possesses in an eminent degree those qualifications which are the peculiar prereguitives of a good writer; while she delights the reader's imagination with her descriptive beauty, she applies home truths to their understanding with the force of rational conviction. The "Haunted Homestead" has been pronounced by those who have read the proofesheets, to be her heat work. This is sufficient to commend it to perusal, and we anticipate for it a great popularity.
